A recent letter to the editor in your newspaper was questioning the need for the “food stamp” program. The author states, “It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are
helping those in need. They are not. It is a charade for the
privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are
not. It is a charade for the privileged few to say they are helping those in need. They are not.